

Go for a bike ride.

Go for a long walk with a friend or two.

Go to the park.

Have a water balloon fight.

Visit somewhere in the community you've never been (museum, historical building, etc).

Do some yard work for an elderly neighbor.

Volunteer to watch the neighbor's kids so that she can run an errand.

Draw on the driveway or sidewalk with chalk to create a group mural.

Have a Sidewalk chalk art show.

Play hop scotch or Frisbee.

Have a Squirt gun battle.

Make Q-tip and rubber band bows and arrows and have a battle.

Set up a tent outside and "go camping".

Weed the garden.

Call your local homeless shelter and see what they need help with (laundry, clean bathrooms, etc).

Write letters to friends, family or military.

Wash the outside of the house windows.

Wash the car.

Help your younger siblings with a lemonade stand.

Walk to the nearest store and buy an ice cream cone.

Go to the city pool.

Plan a craft activity and invite neighborhood kids to come and make it.

Bake cookies.

Read a book to your younger siblings.

Get a group of kids together to play soccer at the park.

Plan a scavenger hunt.

Play a board game.

Reorganize your closet.

Ask Mom to teach you a life skill (bake something, do the laundry, sew something).

Invite friends over for a board game party. (Everyone brings their favorite board game.)

Write group stories. (Each of you write a few lines of a story and then pass your story on to someone else to continue where you left off. Read your silly stories aloud.)

Make a music video.

Visit a nursing home. Share your talents (Singing, piano, etc), or just visit with or read to the residents.

Go to the gym and play or work out.

Create a funny skit and video tape it.

Plan a backyard movie night.

Have an art day with the neighborhood kids, and then plan an art show to display their work for their parents.

Take a bucket of cleaning supplies to neighbor's homes and announce that you are there to do a chore for them! Ask what they'd like help with. (Only go to neighbors you know.)

Plan a meal. Shop for the ingredients, and cook it! (For the family or invite friends.)

Find a local place to go hiking.

Write in your journal or diary.

